Evan Rowell has been creating digital graphics art for business advertising, most recently for government and travel applications, for over 20 years.

Having an extensive background in web site development, customer relations, network marketing and having already developed the United People Power trademark, logo and the current overall look and feel of the United People Power endeavor, Evan is uniquely qualified to continue establishing and advancing the image of United People Power as a member of the United People Power board.

Evan is currently the owner and developer of City Shogun Graphic Arts, a web based business specializing in print media advertising for companies such as Travel-Pal International as well as various government tourism Bureaus. City Shogun Graphic Arts has developed print media advertising for hundreds of businesses in the western united states with an emphasis in local area business mapping and advertising brochures.

In an effort to advance his ability to meet the ever increasing and changing graphics art needs of his clients Evan is currently enrolled in the New York Institute of Professional Photography. Evan has an intense passion for photography that is a perfect compliment to his graphics arts endeavors which will superbly round out his professional tenure as a graphics artist.

Evan holds to the highest standards of morals and ethics. He is active in his church as well as being committed to civic responsibilities. Evan is a devoted family man who also loves woodworking and the outdoors.
